

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million. The public sector has become a major employer in the UK, and this has led to a number of public sector unions, such as the Public Service Union, the Public Service Alliance and the Public Service Employees' Union, which have been formed to represent public sector employees.

The Public Service Union (PSU) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the largest public sector union in the UK. The PSU represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.

The Public Service Alliance (PSA) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the second largest public sector union in the UK. The PSA represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.

The Public Service Employees' Union (PSEU) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the third largest public sector union in the UK. The PSEU represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.

The Public Service Union (PSU) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the largest public sector union in the UK. The PSU represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.

The Public Service Alliance (PSA) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the second largest public sector union in the UK. The PSA represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.

The Public Service Employees' Union (PSEU) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the third largest public sector union in the UK. The PSEU represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.

The Public Service Union (PSU) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the largest public sector union in the UK. The PSU represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.

The Public Service Alliance (PSA) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the second largest public sector union in the UK. The PSA represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.

The Public Service Employees' Union (PSEU) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the third largest public sector union in the UK. The PSEU represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.

The Public Service Union (PSU) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the largest public sector union in the UK. The PSU represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.

The Public Service Alliance (PSA) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the second largest public sector union in the UK. The PSA represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.

The Public Service Employees' Union (PSEU) is a union that represents public sector employees in the UK. It was formed in 1997 and is the third largest public sector union in the UK. The PSEU represents public sector employees in a wide range of public sector organisations, including the NHS, local government, and the civil service.